

Continuing Studies Fund: Policy Document

1. Any United Reformed Church minister who is eligible to apply for EM3 funding is also eligible to apply for support through the Continuing Studies Fund. The Fund is not available for ministers from other denominations working with the United Reformed Church.
2. This assistance is offered to help ministers serving in ways that are recognised by the United Reformed Church. The Continuing Studies Fund can be called upon after all EM3 sources have been exhausted, including sabbatical funding and “rolled-over” annual EM3 allowances.
3. A number of activities are eligible for support from the Continuing Studies Fund:
 - i. Part-time study for higher degrees. Funds might, for example, be used towards the payment of fees, research expenses, or the cost of having the thesis bound in the requisite number of copies.
 - ii. Professional development programmes such as CIPD (Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development)
4. The fund offers a maximum annual amount of up to £350 for a Bachelors’ degree, Graduate Diploma, or professional development programme and up to £500 towards a Postgraduate Diploma, Masters or PhD. Repeat requests are allowed, throughout the duration of study.
5. Applications for this support should be made to the Secretary for Education & Learning by the Synod Officer responsible for EM3 using the designated application form. A copy of the EM3 G1 form should be included with the request.
6. The annual closing date for applications for the subsequent academic year is 30 June.
